Mr. Isaac H. Jones, the Superintendent of the New Hampshire Reform School, who mysteriously disappeared on Monday last, has not yet been found, though a letter was received from him by the secretary of the institution on Tuesday, dated at Bastan, saying that he had been "overweighted," but was not in the least insane; that his books had not been kept in order through his own fault, and that the aim of his life would be to make good any deficiency in his accounts, which he had not seen, but must have lost through also own carelessness. A letter was received at the same time by his wife, containing twenty dollars, and saying he would write to her and help her take care of the children, but she could not write to him. The trustees have as yet been unable to find any deficiency in his accounts, and do not believe he intended to commit any franch, as he took away no property belonging to the institution which was in his hands. It is believed he became plarmed at finding he could not make his books agree, and his reason was partially acthroned. His bonds will more than cover any deficiency which may be discovered.
